

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An interface converter for functionally connecting external devices having interfaces complying with different standards. The interface converter includes a USB-ATAPI
5 command converter and a USB-ATA command converter. A switching controller checks the type of the interface of each external device and activates one of the command converters in accordance with the result of the checking.